

Elementary students study basic writing techniques and are exposed to stylistic sentences. But each class they write using the sentences they've learned. They also are required to write these sentences in paragraphs and essays.